Akron, Ohlo, is outclassed by New York and New Orleans in point of size, but not in the bloodthirsty vindictiveness of its citizens. It took ten years to ascertain certainly that Omaha had cheated in the count of her people, but the truth is out at last. The census returns of 1890 showed a population of 140,452. The returns of the twelfth census give the city but 102,555 people. The great loss is being explained in official circles by the charge that old hotel registers were utilized in 1890 for the purpose of swelling the total of the enumeration. THE AMERICAN EXECUTIVE.

Coming from a Democratic source the following complimentary reference to President McKinley's Chinese policy must be regarded as having the merit of sincerity, at least, and as being uninfluenced by partisan sentiments. The Chicago Journal under the caption above says:

The American soldier has marched from the seacoast to the Chinese capital, and on the way has fought so fast and furious that he has produced a list of "recommendations for gallantry under heavy fire." He has shot holes in the wall of Pekin, and shot yellow men off the top of the wall, and at last accounts was fighting in the streets of the ancient city.

Occasionally arises an unreasonable person to arraign the president in strong language-for permitting and encouraging this sort of thing without the advice or consent of congress. Naturally this chitteism does not come from the shrewd politican, who appreciates the fact that the president was never in closer touch with public opinion in this country than be is today.

with public opinion in this country than he is today.

An executive who would have convened congress to deal with so much of the Chinese question as has developed up to date would be an executive not worth having. The shifting phases of the eastern crisis have called for executive judgment and courage only. At such times the office of the executive attains to extraordinary importance. Mr. McKinley has employed but a small part of the authority vested in him, not so much by constitutional say-so as by precedent and tradition.

far he has conducted affairs admirably. It looked like plain sailing announcing an honest, straightforward policy and sticking to it. But we do not know how much hard work there may have been behind the scenes; how much tact, patience, and perhaps "bluff" may have been needed at critical times. All we know is that the position of the United States in China today is such as to bring gratification to every American, and that the present administration deserves the credit of it. Some other administration might have done as well; but that is hardly material on the eve of an election.

but that is hardly material on the eve of an election.

Mr. McKinley has done more for himself and his party during the past two months than his slouch-hatted running mate will be able to accomplish before November. It was rather a good joke, after the Philadelphia convention, to picture Mr. Roosevelt "carrying" the head of the ticket. But when the tumult and the pistol-shooting die, and the cowand the pistol-shooting die, and the cow-boys and the bronchos depart, we per-ceive that if the Republican party is to win in November, the quiet gentleman in Washington, who talks platitudes, but avoids attitudes, will be the carrying end of the ticket.

Fort Scott Woman Causes Arrest of Her Daughter.

Charged Her With Stealing a Deed to Some Land.

IS A MIXED AFFAIR.

A Wichita Young Girl Dons Boys Clothes.

She Leaves Home and No Trace of Her Going.

Fort Scott, Aug. 24.—Miss Nancy May, a well known young lady school teacher of this county, who lives with her mother on South Scott avenue, and Prof. Jas. Matthews, a handsome young man who has just been employed as principal of the Hiattville school, were arrested at noon today by Sheriff Brooks upon complaint of Miss May's aged mother, who charges them with having stolen a deed to a 40 acre tract of land near Clarksburg, and placed it on file at the recorder's office. Miss May taught the Bell school near Clarksburg last year and was this year engaged to teach at Barnesville. She and Prof. Matthews are cousins, but Mrs. May, so the officers say, professes to believe that they contemplate getting married. The charge is a felony, and their hearings are set for next Monday morning in city court. Meantime they are out on bond.

Mrs. May, a long time ago, executed a deed to the 40 acres in favor of her daughter, the defendant, but says it was not to be delivered until her death, the condition being that the daughter was to care for her until that time. They then lived on a farm near Clarksburg. Last spring they moved to this city. It is chaimed by Miss May that the deed was delivered to her and that the property belongs to her. Prof. Matthews claims he had no interest further than to heip his cousin in the matter. Mrs. May says the deed was to have been delivered to Miss Nancy upon certain conditions which have been violated and that therefore the deed is void.

Not Recruit in Kansas.

Fort Scott, Aug. 24.—Since the publication last week of the letter of Anson B. Ingels to Capt. W. A. Green of this city, who is now in the Philippines offering him the captaincy of a company of the convoy which is to accompany a French expedition into the Sahara desert a number of Fort Scott boys have expressed a desire to enlist in the convoy. Some of them have corresponded with Mr. Ingels who is to command it, and he has written Will Blatchley regarding the applications. Mr. Blatchley today issued the following card relative to the matter:

Ingels, of Larned, Kan., has requested me to say to the ex-members of company F and others who may be concerned, that he will not enlist any-one in America for his proposed expedi-tion into the Sahara; all enlistments be-inb made in Algiers, and only the officers being obtained in this country from practical military men of experience."

Populist Chairman Says Bryan Crowd Was Large.

Was Large.

The general opinion expressed in Topeka concerning the Bryan notification meeting is that it was not the success, in point of attendance, that was anticipated. This is not the view held by the Populists who, according to Chairman Ridgely, are well pleased with the result. Mr. Ridgely said to a State Journal reporter this afternoon:

"The attendance was fully up to our expectations. The programme was carried out smoothly and everything passed off pleasantly. In my opinion the meeting was a grand success."

"How many people do you think came in on the trains" asked the reporter.

"Five thousand at least," was Mr. Ridgely's reply. "I did not go to the depots, but I believe that at the very lowest estimate, there were 5,000 visitors." he said.

"What is your estimate of the crowd at the exercises" was asked.

"I did not make an estimate of the crowd," was the reply of the chairman. "I have been told by men who were careful in making an estimate that there were 10,000 or 12,000 people there. That is the opinion expressed by others but I confess that I was so absorbed in the proceedings that I made no attempt to estimate the crowd.

"The meeting yesterady afternoon,"said Mr. Ridgely, "was a grand success. The one last night was beyond our expectations. The crowd was immense last night."

Next Year at Hiawatha.

Troy, Aug. 24.—The district convention of the Epworth league closed yesterday. The next convention will be held in Hiawatha, June, 1901. Officers elected are as follows: President, Miss Neille Wenner, Holton; first vice president, J. C. Plans are being made to furnish the United States troops in Pekin with supplies. The department has ascertained that the Taku port will be open until November 15, and before that time it is expected that most of the supplies can be shipped to Taku. The railway between Taku and Tien Tsin is in good condition, but some estimate that it will take nearly three months to repair the railway between Tien Tsin and Pekin. Meanwhile the Pei Ho and the canal can be utilized for transportation until the river freezes. The commissary and medical stores which were shipped on the transport Meade and destined for China have been ordered to be unloaded at Nagasaki and sent to Taku on the transport Indiana. Dispatches were received from General Chaffee today, but only those giving casualty lists were made public.

Admiral Remey advised the navy department that the Taku cable was working. The state department received the following cablegram from Consul Johnson:

landed to protect Japanese officials. Restoring order.

The state department's dispatch from Consul Johnson at Amoy that marines, presumably Japanese, had landed there, may cause a diversion to that section similar to the recent affair at Shanghal. The Japanese legation here has not been advised of the actual landing of marines there, but it is said that the Japanese consul at Amoy a short time ago applied to the government for warships to guard against any emergency which might arise. In response to the request two Japanese ships were dispatched to Amoy and it isunderstood here that they are now at that point. They have on board a considerable number of marines, snitable for a landing party.

A Japanese landing at Amoy has more than usual significance from the fact that Amoy is within what is known as the "Japanese sphere of influence." This "sphere" is said by officials to be similar to that under which Great Brittain exercise an influence in the Yang Tse valley. The province of Fu Klen, the principal being Amoy and Fu Chow. As a "sphere" it is chiefly important to Japan. as it lies opposite to the island of Formosa, which Japan took from China as the result of their late war.
